AFFAIRS OF THE RAILWAYS.

Personal, Local and State Notes. The Lewiston and Sudbury divisions of the Pennsylvania system of roads have been consolidated and will hereafter be known as the Lewiston division covering 230 miles of main line. Frank Tilden, formerly ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines at this point, now with the Illinois Central people, is stopping • day or two with friends in this city. His wife accompanies him.

On application most of the roads in this State will carry parties of ten or more on the 30th of this month to any point where the centennial day is to be celebrated at one fare for the round trip.

C. J. Smith who has just been appointed general manager of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company has for several years been the land commissioner of the Union Pacific road, with headquarters at Omaha. It is stated that Judge Stevenson Burke, who proposes to defeat the consolidation of the Bee-line and Big Four on the grounds that the consolidation would be illegal, holds in his own name but one share of the

The surveying corps of the Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis road are this week locating the permanent line for an extension of the road toward St. Louis. Work on the extension is to be commenced by

May 13. A meeting of the general ticket and pas-senger agents of the roads in the Central Traffic Association has been called for May 1, at Chicago, for the purpose of revising the summer tourist rate-sheet, which goes into effect June 1.

There has been no reduction in force at the shops of the Pennsylvania Company at this point as yet, and as business is improv-ing again there will not likely be. Through the summer the half Saturday holiday, how-ever, will be continued. The Cincinnati, Wabash & Michigan has just received from the Brooks locomotive-works two powerful freight engines which will be put into service at once. The freight as well as passenger traffic of this road is increasing handsomely of late. Chairman Walker, of the Interstate Railway Association, has postponed the hearing of the Chicago & Alton's request to cut the lumber rate. Should the C. & A. do as it threatens the Texas roads would be the greatest sufferers by the reduction. The Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis freight depots at all points on its branches. One is being built at Tell City on the Can-nelton branch, and others of the same style of architecture are to be built soon. The Bee-line officials left for St. Louis last evening. One of the objects of their going is to take steps to increase their side-track capacity at that point, the increase in business since taking the Kanawha Dispatch on to their line requiring additional

A Sisterhood of Locomotive Engineers has been organized in New Jersey as an auxiliary to the Brotherhood. The women in the society are the wives and daughters of the engineers, and they hold secret meetings at each others' homes instead of halls as the men do.

General Manager Hickson, of the Grand Trunk railway, has ordered that no freight trains be run on Sunday, with the excep-tion of those carrying live stock and per-ishable goods. It is stated that the Dela-ware & Hudson road is also in sympathy with the movement.

Work has been resumed in earnest on the American Midland, formerly the New York, Mahoning & Western road. The parties at the head of the enterprise say they have the material all purchased to build into Fort Wayne. They expect to make connections with the C., S. & C. and the T., C. & S. road this week.

Presidents Adams, of the Union Pacific, and Perkins, of the Burlington, have signed a contract for the construction of a union depot at Omaha, to cost $1,500,000 As part of the agreement all the Iowa lines now terminating in Council Bluffs will cross the Union Pacific bridge and have terminal facilities in Omaha.

W. M. Phillips, superintendent of the Lewiston division of the Pennsylvania lines, has resigned, and R. L. Holliday, of the Bedford division, has been appointed to fill his place. The latter is succeeded by W. H. Heyward, assistant engineer of the Philadelphia division. The changes are in the line of promotion and take effect May 1.

General Manager Beckley, of the Cincinnati, Wabash & Michigan, telegraphs that the report sent out that their road was ten miles shorter than it had been understood to be prior to the recent survey, which oc-cupied eighteen days, is incorrect. It is ex-actly 166 miles from Anderson, Ind. to Ben-ton Harbor, which, added to the distance from Indianapolis to Anderson, would make the total distance 208 miles.

Train No. 7 on the C., St. L. & P., which consisted on Tuesday night of seven cars, was hauled from Columbus to Indianapolis in four hours and twenty-eight minutes, five minutes of dead time at Bradford and Richmond to be deducted and the usual stops at railroad crossings. The distance is 188 miles. At one place a distance of thirteen miles was covered at an average speed of a mile in fifty-eight seconds.

The relief department of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg will not be in full operation until July 1. R. F. Smith, general agent of this department, and who will probably be superintendent of the dithe more important railroad centers on the system, getting matters into shape and giving information to the employes on the matter as to the workings of the association on the lines east of Pittsburg.

The demand for stone at the Bedford quarries and other quarries on the line of the L., N. A. & C. is so great that the man-agement think by the middle of next month the shipments of stone over their line will reach 150 cars a day. The Bedford stone is to be used in extensive improvements going on at Chicago, St. Louis and Louisville. The shipments to Indianapolis and other points on the L., N. A. & C. system will reach twenty-five to thirty cars a day.

Three of the millionaires of Pennsylvania were boys in the office of Thomas C. Scott, when president of the Pennsylvania lines.
Robert Pitcairn, superintendent of the western division of the Pennsylvania road, was sent to New York on special duty by President Scott in 1857, and is now one of Pennsylvania's millionaires. Andrew Carnegie and Harry Oliver, two others of Pennsylvania's wealthiest men, were messenger boys, in 1858, for President Scott.

Talk of a strike of the railroad employes is still heard, but, when traced to its source, is usually found to originate with men who, through the economical streak which has come over the roads, are thrown out of a job. It is unfortunate that so many roads have been compelled to reduce the number of their employes. Should the crops be as good as now promised, within a few weeks the men discharged will again be wanted.

The minority bondholders in deciding to be bidders for the Wabash at the coming foreclosure sale have undertaken a pretty big task. But if supported they may force the purchasing committee to make terms with them. Their demand for par and in-terest cannot, it is said, be acceded to with-out danger as it would interfere with the settlement already made with a majority of the eastern division bondholders who have accepted a reduction of their interest to 4 per cent.

The Railroad Commissioners of Illinois have just rendered an important decision in which not only freight men, but grain shippers are interested. They, in effect, decide that "track scales" which are used by most of the roads do not comply with the law, which requires that grain trans-ferred and weighed in bulk shall be "accu-rately" weighed in "covered hopper scales," which scales shall be of sufficient capacity to weigh an entire car-load at a single draught. Track scales are not hopper scales, and most of those in use are not covered, as required by law; and those not covered, being subject to the influence of wind and weather, they do not meet the substantial and important requirements of accuracy in weight. They say that it is not within their province to waive any positive requirement of a law of the State. It will therefore be necessary for the roads in question to altogether discontinue the use of the track scales for the weighing of grain in bulk at as early a day as practica-

Miscellaneous Items. The Southern States east of the Missis-sippi river have laid nearly 50 per cent. of the new track reported thus far this year. There is a passenger conductor on the Eastern road, Massachusetts, who has held that position for forty-two years, and there has never been a passenger killed or injured on a train under his charge.

The debt of the Union Pacific company to the United states government now its origina amounts to about $50,000,000, and the directors show that it is necessary to use a portion of the earning of the road to prevent this large debt from increasing. The Interstate-commerce Commission has decided to allow all carriers who so desire to give evidence on the questions raised by the case of George Rice against the Cincin-nati, Washington & Baltimore. These questions deal with the relative rates on oil in barrels and in tank cars, the payment of mileage rates on tank cars, etc.

READY FOR DISTRIBUTION.

The Acts of the Last General Assembly Will Probably Be in Force Within Two Weeks.

Secretary of State Griffin was able to announce with a good deal of pride yesterday that the printed laws enacted by the last General Assembly were ready for distribution. The first bound volumes were delivered at his office during the morning, and within half an hour the work of expressing the books to the county clerks was in progress. The acts make a book of 560 pagesthe largest volume of the kind, except that of 1881, ever issued by the State. It is printed on good paper, and is strongly bound. In addition to the acts, it contains a comprehensive index, covering twenty pages, which was prepared by Mr. Young, Deputy Secretary of State.

"How long will it take to distribute the acts?" was asked of Mr. Griffin.

"I expect to have all of the county clerks" receipts for the laws sent them by the 30th inst. The Governor's proclamation declaring the laws in force will, of course, be issued immediately afterward. The books will be sent out as fast as they come from the bindery, and the binders can keep a large force busy delivering the books."

Through the efficiency of Mr. Griffin and his assistants the acts are being delivered six weeks earlier than ever before. The heretofore have hardly ever a volume of more two hundred pages, and then were not ready for delivery before the middle of June or the 1st of July. The acts of 1881, compressed within a book about the size of that now in hand, were not distributed until September of that year. There was an ormous amount of work connected w the current publication of the acts, and had it not been for Mr. Griffin's excellent management they would not have gone into force until the 1st of August or later. In the first place, all the enrolled acts delivered at the Secretary of State's office had to be copied by type-writers. After the copying was done the copies were compared with the enrolled acts and then sent to the State printer. The proof, as fast as it was returned, was read three times, and each time compared with the enrolled act. Mr. Griffin employed five expert type-writers in the work, and paid them out of his own pocket, as the State does not make any provision for the pay of the extra help the current publication of the acts, and had his own pocket, as the State does not make any provision for the pay of the extra help required in getting out the laws. Ever since the General Assembly met Mr. Griffin has had two extra clerks employed regularly, and a portion of the time four, all of whom have been paid as were the other extra assistants. He was not compelled to go to this additional expense, but rather than delay the publication of the laws he concluded to do it.

In the past it has been the custom of Secretaries of State to have all the work of preparing copies of the acts for the printer.

secretaries of State to have all the work of preparing copies of the acts for the printer done by the clerical force provided by the State. These officers, it is said, were always willing that there should be as much delay as possible, from the fact that the longer the delay the more money the Secretary could make by selling certified copies. A great many of the acts contain emergency clauses, and people interested in them were thus compelled to purchase copies of that character. Mr. Griffin could, if he had decharacter. Mr. Griffin could, if he had de-layed the distribution of the acts another month, have made several hundred dollars, but he believed it to be his duty to see that all the laws were put in force at the earliest time possible. The only thing that can now prevent the laws from being declared in effect in a week or ten days is delay on the part of county officers in re-turning the receipts for the books distrib-uted. Quite a number of important laws do not have emergency clauses attached. do not have emergency clauses attached, and it is known that heretofore persons interested in seeing the enforcement of some of them deferred have used their influence to have county officers to withhold their receipts. Mr. Griffin has been apprised of an attempt of that kind at this time, but an attempt of that kind at this time, but he proposes to see, so far as he can, that the clerks' receipts are promptly returned to him. The early publication of the acts is a great surprise to attorneys who had not expected to see them in print before the middle of June or the first of July. The work, they say, reflects great credit upon both Mr. Griffin and the printer, Mr. Burford.

Recognition of Samoan Humanity.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: It is possible the suggestion has been already offered, yet a repetition of one so meritorious is not out of place, and it is certainly one that will meet the hearty approbation of every true American. While we are thrilled with the accounts of the grand heroism of our sailors during the dreadful storm at Samoa, we must not forget the bravery, even to the sacrifice of life, displayed by the Samoans in their efforts to save the lives of our heroes. Even to save their enemies from certain destruction they faced death and were unceasing in their work of rescue. This is something that merits grateful recognition by our government, and it should be in such form as to impress each individual Samoan who risked his life that the American people are not unmindful of his heroic deeds. CULLINGS FROM THE COURTS. The Cable Railroad Company Files an Answer as to Certain Charges.

In the suit of the Citizen's Street-railway Company against the Indianapolis Cable Street-railway Company the defendant yesterday filed an answer, in which a portion of the charges made by the Citizens' company are denied. The cable company denies that the ordinance under which the other company is operating requires it to occupy any particular part of the streets of the city, but permits it to occupy any part of the streets where it is practicable. It is admitted that at the time the suit was filed the cable company was tearing up Meridian and Market streets, and intended then to lay a track, but it is denied that the Citizens' company ever lost money in its operation, as was claimed. The statement that the company began work after nightfall is also denied, but it is admitted that a large force of men were on hand to work along the various routes.

Why They Were Divorced. Judge Walker granted a divorce yesterday to a couple about whose history there is something of a romance. Three years ago Mamie Williams, then fifteen years of age, married Martin Williams, eighteen, and since their marriage they have had one child. Yesterday the wife appeared in court asking for a divorce and stated that never in her lifetime had she experienced any affection for her child's father, but that she had married him purely to spite another lover at the time. She accused him of having beaten her with furniture and otherwise mistreating her, on which ground their marriage was annulled by the court. In Judge Taylor's room the old Clayton case was finally settled. Masilvia A. Clayton claimed to have married Saml. M. Clayton on May 9, 1880, in Eureka Springs, Mo. On March 7, of the same year, she married one George Baker, who deserted her at the end of a week and disappeared. She stated yesterday that her marriage to Clayton was owing to misrepresentation on his part, and a divorce was granted after eleven years of a childless married life. Seven other divorce suits were disposed of during the day in the various courts.

Elizabeth Langsdale's Charges. Elizabeth Langsdale yesterday filed an answer in the suit of County Treasurer Loftin against John E. Sullivan, in which she was a co-defendent. Loftin originally sued for the possession of notes and for the foreclosure of a mortgage, and in her answer Mrs. Langsdale sets forth the claim that it was not in Loftin's power to insti-tute the litigation as he did not own the notes and mortgages, but that the money which he loaned to Sullivan belonged to the public and not to himself. In addition to these altegations Mrs. Langsdale prefers charges against Loftin of having been leagued with Sullivan in the latter's trickery, insomuch, as she claims, he was well aware, at the time that he made the loans, that Sullivan was an embezzler and a violator of election laws, and the defendant's intrusting him with funds is ascribed to a desire to screen Sullivanfrom public denunciation. In conclusion, Mrs. Langsdale petitions the court to establish her rights as administratrix in the original suit.

Telephone Suits Dismissed. The American Bell Telephone Company vesterday dismissed its suits in the United States Court against sixty-nine defendants, who, it was alleged, were infringing on the Bell patent. The suit was dismissed on ac-count of a decision rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States some School Text-Book Bids.

Superintendent of Public Instruction La-Follette has, in accordance with the instructions of the State Board of Education, advertised for bids to furnish text-books for the schools of the State, as provided by the law enacted by the last Legislature. As the advertisement was first inserted only on Tuesday, it is too early yet to expect responses, but as prospective bidders will have to write for a copy of the law and blanks for proposals, the Superintendent expects to hear from them next week. The bids are to be opened on May 28, and the board, of course, reserves the right to reject any or all of them. It depends altogether upon what kind of bids are submitted as to whether the new books can be introduced at the beginning of the next school year. If the best bid is for printed books, they can be introduced next fall, but if the books to be used have to be compiled or printed, it will be impossible to get them ready by the 1st of September, when the new school year will begin. The advertisement asks for bids from publishers, authors or compilers.
